OBSERVATIONS

United States treasury, this country would have little to fear from a foreign invader.

Soon the German-made Goliath of the skies, the ZR-4, will cross the Atlantic from Germany for delivery to Uncle Sam.

When this big balloon arrives, this nation will have just two first-class dirigibles. Two should be just a start. We should have a great fleet, many of which would act as "mother" ships for aeroplanes.

The recent test at Dayton, when an aeroplane was launched from a lighter-than-air machine in the air, opens up vast possibilities for the development of combination balloon-aeroplane defense.

LA FOLLETTE is making plenty of speeches. But he isn't saying anything about the war with Germany.

Davis is talking plenty. But he is keeping particularly mum about prohibition and the League of Nations.

Dawes is speaking every day and Coolidge occasionally. But neither is saying anything about oil, or the League.

It is just as interesting to watch for what the candidates avoid as it is to read what they say—perhaps a little bit more so.

THE American people love a fighter. They love a battler so well that their admiration sometimes runs away with their good sense. For the consistent fighting qualities of Senator La Follette every person must have respect. But let us proceed with caution before we vote for him for the highest office at our disposal.

The issue is not concerned with the country's admiration for the senator's fighting qualities. The questions which every voter must answer for himself are these:

Will the country be run better by Coolidge and Dawes than by La Follette and Wheeler or Davis and Bryan?

Is steady and careful advancement better than abrupt change of untried, unproved principles of government?

Is your particular position in the economic life of the country going to be affected by the election?

Works at 107 On Perpetual Motion Dingus

Age No Deterrent to Alabama Inventor, Who Still 'Hopes'

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—When he was 67 years old, back in 1881, James Madison Farrar resigned from active business to devote himself to development of a perpetual motion machine idea. Today, at 107, he is still working upon the device.

"But I may have to give up," he admits, sorrowfully. "I can't get around much any more, even with my crutch, and the thing won't work."

Every day "Uncle Jimmie" hobnobbs to the workshop fitted up for him in the home of a daughter, Mrs. Will Pledger. The room is filled with little wheels, screws, rivets and small tools with handles worn by two score years of use.

There is no machine there now. "You see," explains the veteran of both the Mexican and Civil wars, "the machine I had wouldn't run any more than a few minutes, so I took it apart a few months ago and am now trying something new. If this doesn't work—well, I may try something else."

Mr. Farrar—who, incidentally, opened the first successful coal mine in Alabama's now great coal field, attributes his long years to a constant interest in many things, new and old, not the least of which is his perpetual motion machine.

Hoot Gibson Picture Saturday, Zane Grey Story Next Week

Hoot Gibson, star in "Broadway or Bust," to be shown in the Torrance theatre Saturday, was a real hard-working cowboy before he became a motion picture actor.

"Broadway or Bust" tells the story of a cowboy who suddenly becomes rich and desirous of showing New Yorkers how to spend money. He takes a pal and two horses, and in the big city he becomes a sensation in exclusive society.

In the supporting cast are Ruth Dwyer, Gertrude Astor, King Zany, Fred Malatesta and Stanhope Wheatcroft.

ZANE GREY STORY

The first motion picture to be done entirely in natural colors is the Zane Grey Paramount production, "New Yorkers how to spend money," which was produced in the original locale described in the book, the deserts of Arizona, by Irvin Willat, Jack Holt, Kathryn Williams, Noah Beery and Billy Dove are featured in the principal roles.

According to Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president in charge of production of Paramount, "Wanderer of the Wasteland" is Zane Grey's favorite story and the most popular of all the books he has given to the American public.

In this picture the Technicolor process was used.

Harbor City Is Royal Host to District Crowd

Chambers of Commerce Enjoy Fine Meeting on Thursday Night

Harbor City was a royal host to the Harbor District Chambers of Commerce last night. The garage was beautifully decorated with flags and greenery.

Frank Merriam presided with his usual free and entertaining wit. He presided at the splendid dinner which they served, and complimented the Boy Scouts for their excellent work in directing traffic to the hall.

George E. Preston welcomed the guests on behalf of Harbor City Commercial Club.

Hugh Pomeroy, secretary of the Regional Planning Commission, spoke on "Good Roads."

The Harbor City orchestra furnished delightful music.

The balance of the musical program followed: Violin duet by Adina Hofstetter and Floyd Higgins; tenor solo by H. Floyd Hollar, accompanied by Mrs. O. L. Hughes; xylophone solo by Minnie Ekman; song by Mrs. E. R. Ball; piano solo by Mildred Fenner; soprano solo by Mrs. C. R. Bras, accompanied by Mrs. Hughes; tenor solo by Arthur Moreau, accompanied by Mrs. Hughes; song by little Miss Bras.

A large delegation from Lomita attended the meeting.

Authorized field representatives of the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company yesterday asserted that the oil in the sump-hole at Francis No. 1, on Western avenue, is oil which was circulated in the hole during a recent fishing job. Observers at the well saw the oil and thought it was coming from a production formation. The bottom of the hole at the Francis is now 5350 feet.

A large number of wells were off production in the field this week, with the result that the average daily production dropped to 53,022 barrels. There were 448 producers, of which 152 were flowing and 296 pumping. Forty-nine wells are being drilled.

"IN THE GREASE"
Notes Gleaned While the Oil Editor Bumps Around Proven Territory

The Shell Oil Company's Kettler No. 2, deep test well, is still the scene of the fishing job, resulting from a twistoff of the drill stem last Sunday.

Three wells were placed on production in the field during the past two days. The largest and best well to be brought in during the past few weeks was completed by the Superior Oil Company, when Torrance No. 53 was swabbed in for a flow of 800 barrels a day. The bottom of the hole is at 3835 feet. Other completions were as follows: Petroleum Midway Oil Company, Dawson No. 2 (Redondo district), 100 barrels at 3450 feet; Sentinel Oil Company, Joughin No. 12, 125 barrels at 3808 feet.

The Standard Oil Company is expecting a good well in Sentinel Joughin No. 15, which is nearing completion on the land the Standard leased from the Superior in the eastern part of the field.

The Shell Oil Company has about completed its program in the field. No new wells are being spudded in.

Huge Sewer System To Serve Torrance

natural drainage lines of the district. Starting at the southern limits of Inglewood, it will be built east to Vermont avenue, thence south through Gardena, thence west to Western avenue, thence south to Torrance, thence southeast along Nigger slough to the screening plant.

The Torrance local sewer system may be connected directly with the big main east of the Union Tool Company's plant.

Service to Lomita

South Torrance and Lomita will be served by two trunk lines. One of these will be constructed from the intersection of Nigger slough and the old Redondo road west to Western avenue and thence angling southwest to Elgin street in West Lomita, from which point plans call for a future extension through the Weston ranch and north to Meadow Park, when such an extension is required. The other trunk, known as the Lomita trunk, will be built along the Redondo road due south through East Lomita almost to Weston street.

The contour of the land in the district reduces the necessity of pumping stations to a minimum, and the system is designed to take advantage of natural drainage and gravity flow.

Tunnel Through Hills

The ultimate disposal of the sewage will be accomplished by the construction of the screening plant and a tunnel through the hills to the Point, west of Point Loma. The tunnel will be carried west out to sea. The screening plant and tunnel, it is contemplated, will be paid for by cooperation between three or four sewer districts in the county. Under this arrangement, tentatively outlined, the sole responsibility of the southern part of Los Angeles county will use the same outfall sewer into the sea, at an enormous reduction in cost to each area.

District No. 5 is bounded roughly as follows: North, northern limits of Inglewood; west, western limits of Inglewood; thence south along eastern limits of Redondo Beach, thence southwest to include most of Palos Verdes hills; South, Pacific ocean; East, Vermont avenue south to Gardena, thence west to Western avenue, thence south to the sea.

Two Years to Build

According to the engineer's report, the system may be in operation by Jan. 1, 1927, if it is started early next year.

The system will cost this district approximately $1,000,000, for which bonds must be voted at an election which will be called shortly.

The present assessed valuation of the district is $46,000,000. According to estimates of engineers, the assessed valuation will be $134,000,000 in 1924.

Here's Cost Estimate

The engineer has prepared a graphic chart of the cost of the sewer to tax payers. This cost, including the district's share in the screening plant, will average about 21 cents for each $100 of assessed valuation a year, until the retirement of the bonds.

Auxiliary Power

The pumping plants, according to the plans, will be equipped with auxiliary power apparatus for use in case of emergency or breakdown.

The engineer's report points out that Torrance alone of all the cities in the district now has a local sewage disposal system. The engineer, however, stresses the fact that already the amount of sewage to be disposed of in Torrance makes absorption at the sewer farm extremely difficult in wet weather.

Engineers Approve

The plans and specifications of the engineer were unanimously approved by the following city engineers: H. R. Postle, George Hegel, A. I. Ferver, Francis Bates, Victor H. Stahle, A. W. Cory, Clyde F. Smith, G. A. Schwabland, J. J. Jessup, A. R. Osthoff, and A. B. Donaldson.

A public hearing on the proposed plan will be held at the Torrance high school auditorium next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. At this time engineers will explain the project in detail and listen officially to any protests against approval of the work.

Women's Club Plan Party on October 21st

Baroness Will Speak at Public Meeting in High School

Instead of beginning the club year with a party, as has been the custom heretofore, the Women's Club held a business meeting in the high school auditorium Thursday afternoon.

The party, or get-together meeting, will be held on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 21, when Baroness Otilley de Roppe will talk to the club members. Members of the club, their husbands and friends, are invited.

After Mrs. Fitzhugh, the president, read Mrs. Toll's October message explaining the new flag salute and the proper way to display the flag, the flag salute was given and "America the Beautiful" was sung.

Mrs. Parks, program chairman, read a message from Mrs. Lyman B. Stookey, district chairman of the American citizenship committee. Mrs. Stookey will be the speaker at the club on Oct. 23.

The membership chairman, Mrs. Peckham, stated that nine new members had been accepted at the meeting of the executive board and introduced those present to the club.

Mrs. Stone, chairman of the ways and means committee, stated her plans for the year. She outlined a plan for raising money for the building fund each month of the club year.

Mrs. Milburn reported on the press conference in Los Angeles Wednesday morning, telling of the wonderful publicity the biennial had received. The book compiled from the clippings contained nearly 27,000 inches, which, valued at the lowest rate of $3.76 running inch, would have cost $90,000, and which the federation received free.

In the absence of Mrs. Brooks, the art chairman, Mrs. Fitzhugh spoke of the wonderful art exhibit at Exposition Park.

Mrs. Reeve, chairman of the building committee, stated that the lot for the clubhouse was clear of debt, and explained the plan for raising money for the building of the clubhouse. A recess was taken that all might view the sketch of the floor plan and the exterior, which Mrs. Reeve explained.

It was unanimously voted to change the hour of opening the club to 2 o'clock instead of 2:30, so as to be able to close earlier; for, as one member expressed it, Torrance is a 4 o'clock town, and when the whistles blow the members get restless.

It was also voted to raise the initiation fee from $1 to $3. An announcement was made of a food sale to be held Saturday at the Reeve hardware store.

Former Chief and Attorney to Face Superior Ct. Trial

it brought out by direct evidence that Morewood actually gave Anderson any money.

Frymer only stated that he gave the money to Morewood and that Morewood said he intended to give some of it to Anderson. The prosecution originally intended to trace the money by testimony of Former Motorcycle Stanley Abbott, but this was impossible owing to Abbott's disappearance.

Anderson and Morewood did not take the stand.

Deputy District Attorney Lucas prosecuted the case. Anderson was represented by Attorney John L. Richardson, and Attorney Kimball Fletcher was counsel for Morewood.

HIS REASON

When Archbishop Trench was dean of Westminster he delegated Canon Cureton to preach at the abbey on a certain saint's day. On such days the boys of Westminster school attended service, and afterward had the rest of the day as a holiday.

While Mr. Cureton, on the morning of the day he was to officiate, was looking over his sermon at the breakfast table, his son asked, in a tone vibrating with anxiety: "Father, is your sermon long today?"

"No, Jimmy, not very."

"But how long? Please tell me."

"About twenty minutes, I should say. But why are you so anxious to know?"

"Because the boys said they would thrash me if you are more than half an hour."

STILL "FRIENDLY"

John Ruskin was wont to attack all and sundry with a savage mentiment which even his best friends at times resented. Once he wrote a friend hoping that a fierce criticism written by him of his friend's picture would make no difference to their friendship. To which the friend had the wit to reply: "Dear Ruskin—Next time I meet you I shall knock you down, but I hope it will make no difference to our friendship."
